

I suspect my comments will fall on deaf ears: still, I have to say it - Don't do it!

Allowing a few megacorporations to have total control of the media will ensure that we never have a chance to hear unique and innovative ideas and voices. TV and radio are already being dumbed down to the lowest common denominator. As a nation, we should be embarrassed by the poor quality and content we already have to endure. Let's not accelerate the race to the bottom by handing over the airways to profit driven corporations that have little interest in improving the quality of their programming.
